The Late General Robert Anderson.
The Savannah Republican has an obituary notice of the late General Anderson, in the course of which the following personal reminiscences of the evacuation of Fort Sumter are given:

The writer of this, by invitation of Captain Hartstone, who had command of the evacuation ceremonies at Sumter, was present on that interesting occasion, a jubilee on water never before witnessed in this country. We came out of the fort with its commander, and subsequently in the pilot-house of the steamer General Clinch, to which he and his command were first transferred, had a long and pleasant interview with the vanquished soldier. He was most unhappy about the difference that had sprung up between the Government and his native South. His situation as a Southern man had been more trying, but he considered the highest obligation upon him was to do his duty as a soldier without reference to his feelings. He declared to us that no circumstance could have induced him to fire upon his fellow countrymen except in defence. The first shot came from them, and was directed at the flag which he was ordered to protect; hence no alternative was left him. We inquired what would be his policy when he reached Washington; he replied that all his labors should be on the side of peace. In any event, he had no heart, he said, for war upon his own countrymen, and he never did again enter the field.

We inquired of Major Anderson, why he abandoned Fort Moultrie after his positive engagement with a committee of South Carolinians not to leave it? His reply was, that mutual obligations were entered into—he to remain and the Carolinians not to disturb him while in possession of the fort. He believed those who gave the assurance acted in good faith, but they could not control others. He left Fort Moultrie under reliable information that without the consent of the authorities of Carolina a plot had been formed in Charleston by the more impulsive portion of the population to attack the fort in the rear. He had unquestionable evidence that such an expedition was on foot, and believing that the work was not defensible, he evacuated it and transferred his garrison to Fort Sumter.

And just here it may not be interesting to relate another circumstance in the same connection. Late in the evening, after the Isabel had left for the fort with Major Anderson and his garrison, the steamer General Clinch, with a large and enthusiastic crowd on board, turned her prow toward the city. The capture of the fort and garrison was on every tongue, and the widest rejoicing pervaded the vessel, many believing the war at an end and Southern independence accomplished. On deck there was a pile of cotton bales, and when nearing the wharf we discerned Captain Hartstone reclining on the top of them, evidently musing and apparently taking no part in the general enthusiasm. Passing by, we addressed him and inquired if he felt unwell under the fatigues of the day. "No, not sick," he remarked. "I was only occupied with serious thoughts of the future, while the rest are enjoying the present. I am a Southern man and sympathize with my people in their wrongs, but I have long been in the service of the United States, and know her spirit and power. I was only thinking how terribly she would avenge this dishonor to her flag."

SPUNKY GIRLS.—The Galesburg (Illinois) Register is responsible for the following:

"Four of our Galesburg ladies—who must be nameless here—have been among our farmers collecting or 'hogging' as they are pleased to term it, for the Chicago sufferers. In their travels they came upon an honest farmer, who doesn't read or take a paper of any kind. He hadn't heard of the Chicago fire and didn't believe a word of it. The ladies, who are all good talkers you know, explained that many poor people had been made homeless and penniless by the Chicago fire. But he would not be convinced. He said they might have fired the other way. Finally one of the ladies produced a copy of the Register and read its dispatches during the catastrophe. The old gentleman still thought there was a trick in it, but told the handsomely dressed ladies that he had a lot of potatoes there in the ground, and if they were a mind to dig 'em they could have all they wanted." The offer was accepted, and the ladies, who knew their customer, jumped nimbly from their light spring wagon, each with a spade in hand, and set to work. The farmer stood against, surveying his new field hands with undisguised amazement. They gathered about twenty bushels, and went back yesterday for more. Before noon to day the last of that patch will be coming into town in that spring wagon. Bless their dear souls, how we wish we were permitted to give their names."

STUPENDOUS CABLE ENTERPRISES.—The London Daily News gives, on good authority, a programme by which our continent is to be utilized more than heretofore in the interest of commerce. It says that three lines of telegraphic cable are about to be laid, under the direction of Mr. Cyrus W. Field. One will be from San Francisco to Honolulu, thence to Midway Island, and thence to Yokohama, five thousand five hundred and seventy-three miles. Another will be from Victoria, Vancouver's Island, to Hakodadi, Japan, thence to Asiatic Russia, communicating with Pootietie, which is already connected by telegraph with St. Petersburg. These two lines are estimated to require 13,707 miles of cable. Lines from Honolulu to Australia will join San Francisco and Melbourne, touching at the Fiji Islands; these lines will reach New Caledonia and Brisbane, which is already connected with Melbourne, Adelaide and Fort Darwin on the north coast, and a contract has been already made for a line from that place to Java. Java is already in communication with India and China. Thus, it is suggested, New York may soon become the world's clearing house for electric messages; the receiving house and distributor of the world's news.

NOTICE TO TEACHERS.

The Board of School Trustees for Scott Township, Fauquier county, Va., wish to employ TWO WHITE TEACHERS—one for a white school near Long Branch meeting house, and the other for a white school at Rectorstown, Appling county, Ga. DRUGS AND CHEMICALS.

SIMMONS' LIVER
The symptoms of Liver Complaint are uneasiness and pain in the side. Sometimes the pain is in the shoulder, and is mistaken for rheumatism. The stomach is affected with loss of appetite and sickness, bowels in general constive, sometimes alternating with lax. Often complaining of weakness, debility and low spirits. Sometimes many of these symptoms attend the disease, and at other times very few of them; but the liver is generally the organ most involved. Cure the liver with
